Welcome to Summer! July is just around the corner and that means a month chock full of GTO 50th anniversary celebrations. The best part is that the festivities then continue into August.

First up is Nationals in Pittsburgh. There are club members leaving just about every day of the first week of July starting Tuesday. Make sure you hook up with a group for the ride out!

Next is our celebration at the Arthritis Foundation Cruise-In and Classic Auto Show. Come have fun with the club as well as visitors. If you can, help out too!

Of course August has Norwalk and our own Indian Uprising All Pontiac Show, but we'll get more into that in next month's Paw Prints.

This month we also have the return of one of my favorite articles; the Member Spotlight! We get to hear our club treasurer's story; Mike Shockley. I love these pieces because it gives you, the club member, a chance to write and contribute to your club newsletter and it gives other club members, especially new members, a chance to get to know spotlighted members.

We also have a very timely technical article from Steve Schaeffer on keeping your GTO running cool in the summer heat.

It's a big edition of the Paw Prints, biggest so far for me, so I hope you enjoy it!

I'm looking for the next Member Spotlight so contact me please! In the mean time, come out with us to local shows and check out Steve's 64 on the cover!

Be safe, have fun and see you at the July Meeting or come out and cruise with us!

Member Spotlight—Mike Shockley

My journey to my first GTO was a long one. I joined the Air Force in 1966. The day before I was to leave for the service my mom was having a dinner for the family at our house. I went to pick up my grandmother and bring her to our house. My brother had a brand new 1966 Pontiac GTO, 4 speed tri-power and told me to take it. I couldn't believe he let me use it! I was on my way to pick up my grandmother taking Lane Ave. to Neil Ave. I can only tell you I decided the car in front of me was going way too slow. I turned up Neil Ave and after that all I can remember was seeing the cop in the rear view mirror. When I saw him, it was only a second, his lights were not yet on. I drove down an alley, took my jacket off and drove back out onto High St and there he was sitting at the light. He pulled me over and told me I was going 95MPH in a 25 MPH zone and I was going to jail. I told him I was going in the service tomorrow, and he said I should have thought about that (see the first picture of my brother's 66 GTO).

He made me follow him down town to the police headquarters where he called my house. To make a long story short it cost me $58.00. My brother was so mad at me he wouldn't even talk to me.

I had been in the Air Force for about 2 years stationed in North Carolina. I would see fellas would come back from Vietnam and buy muscle cars. Well, I was ready to do the same so I volunteered to go over there. I don't know what was I thinking! I got there and while there you could order whatever car you wanted and it would be waiting for you in California or at home. I had my Dad order my car from Marte Pontiac. He told them what I wanted and I hoped that he would do the right thing. I only talked to him twice while I was in 'Nam and he never mentioned anything about the car. I got home on Jan 2, 1969 and everyone came to the airport. I had totally forgotten about the car I had ordered. The next thing I know we were walking to the it. Dad said here are the keys to your car. I couldn't believe it! I finally had it!

I then worked at Lockbourne AFB, and lived at home. I went on a blind date with a girl named Wilma Faiella. The second date we went on, was to see Romeo & Juliet in Bexley. I parked on the street 4 blocks away where there wasn't another car on the street. We went in the movie and at 9:08 pm I announced to Wilma that someone just hit my car. She looked at me like I was crazy. We stayed at the movie until it was over then I pulled her as fast as I could to my car. As soon as I turned the corner, I could see the back end of my car up on the sidewalk. I was crying and running to the car when a Bexley police officer was coming down the street. He told me at 9:08 a drunk driver had hit my car and was trying to get away when they caught him. The car was never the same. When I got engaged to Wilma I sold it back to Marte Pontiac (See the picture at the right).

Member Spotlight—Mike Shockley

When I retired, I came to a GTOACO show at Dennis Pontiac and talked to a bunch of people there. I found out there was a 1969 GTO convertible for sale in Cleveland. I drove up to see it and bought it for $10,000. On the way home I lost 1st and 3rd gear. I took the car to Evans Auto. The transmission had to be rebuilt, the carb was rebuilt, the exhaust was replaced, the shifter was rebuilt, I had that car for a long time and continued to have issues with it as many of you can attest to and often do; Even now! I sold the car when I needed money (see the picture to the right). Many of you should recognize it.

And that's my story. After the 69, I did get a 2006. Again, I had to sell it when I needed the money. Some day I will have another GTO. Here are some other pictures:

Keeping Your GTO Cool by Steve Schaeffer

Hot summer days are the ultimate test of your muscle cars cooling system. We all know that water boils at 212 degrees F. With a 15 lb. radiator pressure cap your coolant doesn't boil until 256 degrees F. However when I look down at my temperature gauge and the car is running at 230 degrees I start to worry.

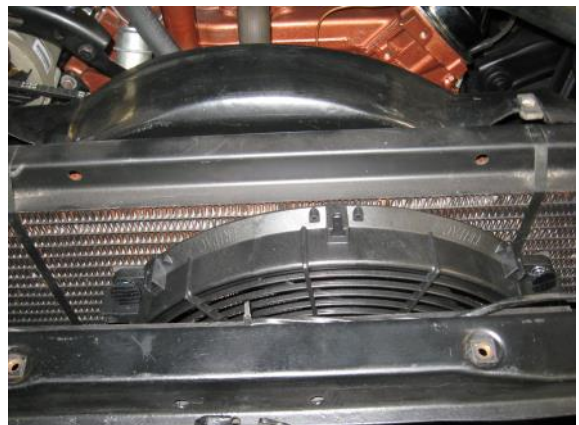

A modified engine produces more horsepower and more heat. Bored out engines with lumpy cams, performance rear end ratios, and high stall speed convertors don't help. There is not one magic cure to get your engine to run at a comfortable 190 degrees in summer heat.

The first steps to a cooler running engine are to check the basics.:

1. Clean radiator. Not clogged with rust, corrosion, or scale from hard water or debris.
2. 50/50 mix of antifreeze and water filled to the correct level. No coolant leaks.
3. A functioning thermostat and fan clutch and good radiator hoses.
4. Radiator cap that holds pressure.
5. Good tune up. A lot of factors will make an engine run hotter. Carburetor mixture too lean. Late ignition timing. Clogged exhaust system. Stuck closed heat riser.
6. Good water pump and a tight fan belt.
7. Good fan shroud.
8. Engine oil filled to the proper level.

If your GTO is still not running cool enough there are a number of improvements you can make. I have had very good luck adding a 4 core copper and brass radiator to a restoration. On a modified car I go with a modern aluminum radiator. The increased capacity and more cooling area really help. I also use a high flow 160 degree thermostat. Running without a thermostat doesn't help because the coolant circulates too fast and doesn't have time to pick up the heat from the engine block and cylinder heads.

You must have good air flow thru the radiator. The factory multi blade fan and a good working fan clutch seem to cool better than many aftermarket mechanical fans. The fan should be positioned in the shroud so it is about half way into the opening. I have added the rubber seals from an air conditioned car to a non air car to get more air flow thru the radiator.

When idling in traffic on a hot summer day you can watch the temperature gauge climb. I have found two cures for this problem.

I have had very good luck with high flow aftermarket water pumps such as Flow Kooler or Milodon from Jegs or Summit Racing. These pumps increase water flow at idle and low rpm. They are high volume and high efficiency and generally flow 30% more than a stock pump. With one of these pumps you must also use a high flow thermostat so they work correctly.

The other thing that I have done to increase air flow thru the radiator in traffic and at low speeds is to add a pusher electric fan in front of the radiator. I always power the fan thru a relay. That way it gets full battery voltage and I am not running too many amps thru the switch that I use to control it. You can use a fan controller that turns the electric fan on and off automatically or a simple toggle switch that you turn on and off manually. Before you install your electric fan hook it up to a battery. To mount it in front of the radiator you need it setup as a pusher, not a puller. Use caution doing this, the fan is very powerful, watch where you put your fingers.

I found that a radiator coolant recovery system is also a good addition. When the coolant is hot it will expand into the tank. When it cools off it will siphon right back into the radiator as long as you use the proper radiator cap.

I have also tried one of the engine coolant products that are advertised in the magazines and did not see an improvement in the temperature. Perhaps one of the other advertised products may work better.

With an automatic transmission, a transmission cooler can be a big help. The factory transmission cooler mounts inside one of the radiators coolant tanks. If 190 degree plus engine coolant helps to cool down the automatic transmission fluid imagine how much extra heat the engine coolant is exposed to.

Overheating an engine can lead to blown head gaskets, cracked cylinder heads or internal engine damage. Help your engine to keep its cool and yours.

Everyone really liked the piston style trophy but they are $700.00 compared to the regular trophies at $466.00. Haydocy is giving us $700.00 for the show and since we are trying to make money the club decided to go with the regular trophies. Dan Gregory Jr., spoke up and said he would donate the difference. Members were thrilled and thanked Dan for his donation. The piston style trophy will have DJ Auto parts and Haydocy as sponsors on them. Also more flyers are being made and DJ Auto Parts will be added as a sponsor. Food vendor will be handled by Haydocy. Stan Farlow & Kevin Russo will handle the special awards so if you have any ideas for those special awards let them know.
